These causes, coming on to be heard before the undersigned upon the Court's own motion, under its statutory authority concerning assignment of cases among the judges of the district, and it appearing to the court that the eleven cases identified herein were filed in the Charlotte Division by the same plaintiff, represented by the same attorney, and that all have to do with a certain patent, and that the interests of justice may be served by consolidation or similar action as to some or all aspects of these cases, and that the first of these cases was randomly assigned to the Honorable Robert J.
